MISS DEMPSEY WAS TOO HASTY SHE ACCUSED HER BROTHER'S TYPE-WRITER OF THEFT.

woman does not always reflect maturely before acting comes to light in a suit which has just been begun in the Court of Common Pleas. The plaintiff is Miss Emma C. Everson, and she de mands $10,000 from Miss Lavinia H. Dempsey for false imprisonment. The story also shows how two men did not allow family prejudice to overcome ther sense of right.

Miss Everson is a type-writer who has desk room in the law offices in the Stewart Building occupied by Guy C. Dempsey, John A. Dempsey and Assistant District-Attorney Stephen J. O'Hare. their sense of right. It has been her custom to hang her hat, jacket and tippet in Guy C. Dempsey's private office, he having given her permission to do so. On March 27 Miss Dempsey called to see her brother Guy at his office. He was out, and Miss Everson escorted her into the private office. Miss Dempsey, seeing the hat, jacket and tippet, ordered the typewriter to remove them. There was a brief dialogue, but Miss Everson did so, placing the effending garments in Mr. O'Hare's office. Shortly after this a lawyer called Miss Everson out to take after this a lawyer called Miss Everson out to take dictation. She was thus occupied about an hour and a half. As she returned she was met by Miss Dempsey, who, grabbing her, siapped her face, exclaiming: "You stole my pocketnook; give it to the at once, or I shall have you arrested!" A cowd gathered around the two women, and Miss Everson burst into sobs. Miss Dempsey got a policinan to have her arrested. Mr. O'Hare warned Miss Dempsey that she was making a serious carge, and asked her if she might not be mistaken. She replied that she was positive, and called upon the officer to search the typewriter. Miss Everson said she was willing to be scarched. The lacket and other garments were searched, but the lost pocketbook was not found.

Guy Dempsey crowded his way into the room about this time. He became much wrought up when he heard of the affair, and suggested that it would be proper that his sister's pockets should be searched. Miss Dempsey was shocked at this and called upon the officer to protect her. Mr. Dempsey then ordered his sister to leave his office at once, and never to enter it again.

Miss Dempsey went to the Tombs Police Court and got a warrant for Miss Everson's arrest. When Justice Martin had heard the case he dismissed the defendant. Miss Dempsey declared that her pocketoke contained a check for $20 and $15 in the state of the court of the cour dictation. She was thus occupied about an hour

Miss Dempsey's next step was to write to her wother that if he would dismiss his pretty type-writer she would go no further in the matter. The step was to write to her would go no further in the matter. Was Everson, however, has now taken up the man where Miss Dempsey dropped them, and has sun a suit for $10,000 damages. And Mr. Dempsey was his typewriter did right too.

When seen yesterday Miss Everson became highly arrous and referred the reporter to Mr. Dempsey, he said: "Yes, I think my sister treated Miss Everson most shamefully. It was pure vindictiveness on her part and was without foundation in fact. If I we a married man I should understand her action

THE FARM AT THE GARDEN.

At the Madison-ave, entrance will be a large tank and fountain for aquatic fowls. A space 150 feet long and 50 feet wide, in the middle of the farm, will be used for exhibition purposes and the judging of the dose, and here the children will be permitted to ride and drive donkeys, ponies and goats. At the Fourth-ave, end there will be two klosks in charge of ten dairy maids, who will daily milk the cows and make butter and cheese, samples of which will be given to the visitors. On the right and left of the dairy there will be a vegetable and a flower market.

On May I a special dog show will be opened in connection with the farm. It is under the auspices of the St. Bernard Club of America, the Club of America, the American Fox Terrier Club, the American Spaniel Club, and the Bull Dog Club of America. Among the exhibitors will be J. Plerpont Morgan. August Belmont, L. and W. Rutherfurd, H. G. Trevor, Lee Tailer, Mrs. Frederick Gebhard, the Hampstead Farm, the Chestnut Hill Kennels, Philadelphia; John E. Thayer, William C. Reick and Colonel J. Ruppert. The dog show will close on May 4.

thoroughly. Back of 't all lies an extreme jealousy on my sister's par' and her very bad temper. I don't want it understood that we are fighting our sister, but my brother and I feel that a respectable young woman in our employ has been misjudged and ill-treated, and we think she has done right in bringing this suit. As Miss Dempsey's brothers we have nothing to say; as individuals we think Miss Everson has been treated shamefully. I don't know whether the pocketbook has been found." So Miss Everson still taps the keys of her type-writing machine in Mr. Dempsey's office, and the offending hat, jacket and tippet hang in their accustomed places. CREDITED' LEADER-THE ELECTION and the other old leaders who train in his band are in excellent form for capturing the new body. There seems to be little to prevent them. The "discrestited" bosses, who are alleged to have been handin-glove with Tammany in former local contests, are nearly all salacid for election to-morrow night, and their names already appear at the head of printed lists giving the names of expected delegations. In this way Jacob M. Patterson heads the VIIth District delegation, Frederick S. Gibbs the XIIIth, John Reisenweber the XIXth, George Hilliam the VIIth, Martin H. Healey the 1st, Francis McGrane the IId, Charles H. Murray the IIId, John Collins the IVth, John Simpson the Vth, Cornelius Van Cott the VIIth, George H. Deane the IXth, George Bliss the XIIth, William Henkle the XIIth, S. V. R. Cruger the XIVth, R. A. Greacen the XVth, George W. Wanmaker the XVIIIth, S. J. Campbell the XXth, John H. Gunner the XXIId, Columbus O. Johnson the XXVIIth, William H. Ten Eyck the XXXth and so on.

The committee appointed by the Republican Organization of the City and County of New-York to scrutinize the returns of the Bliss-Patterson pri-

John H. Gunner the XXIId, Columbus O. Johnson the XXVIIth, William H. Ten Eyck the XXXII and so on.

A caiculation of forces made yesterday by ex-Justice Patterson's arithmeticians indicates that the ex-Justice counts on the support of fully two-thirds of the Assembly districts, and that these districts will cast 64 of the 110 votes in the committee, or a clean majority of 18 in the new body. The districts set down as sure for Patterson by his friends are the 1st, 1id, 1Ild, 1Vth, Vth, Vth, Vih, Vih, Viht, Vilth, Vilth, IXth, two delegates in the Xth, XIIIth, XVth, XXIXth and the XXXII. XXXIId, XXVia, XXIXth and the XXXII. If Colonel George Bliss should think it wise to fight Patterson he might succeed in getting the support of the remaining forty-six delegates, but it is doubtful if he could hold all of them. There seems to be nothing in the way of Mr. Patterson's resuming his old place in control of the organization or putting anybody else there he pieases. General Anson G. McCook and John Sabine Smith are talked of for president of the County Committee, but there need be no astonishment if Patterson should conclude to vindicate himself and his Tammany-Republican associates by accepting the post himself.

AN UNPANTOMIMIC PANTOMIME.

A NEW STAGE FORM OF AN OLD PAIRY TALE-"CINDERELLA" AT ABBEY'S THEATRE.

Although "Cinderella," which is to be played for the first time at Abbey's Theatre to-morrow night. is commonly referred to as a pantomime, the managers have been at some palas to explain that it is not one. The English Christmas pantomime has seen a good deal of evolution, and it is indeed no longer pantomime in the sense of consisting of act-ing without words. It usually ends, however, with a harlequinade, which is real pantomime, and em-ploys the conventional characters. But "Cinderella" has not even this. Whether the omission of the harlequinade is a recommendation for the piece or the reverse is a question that each spectator is at liberty to decide for himself. The pantomime, or extravaganza, will be placed on the stage here with the same care and the same elaboration as at the London Lyceum. Oscar Batrett, who directed the spectacle in London, is busily engaged with preparations for the opening night. All the scenery, costumes, properties and effects employed abroad will be used here. It will, in fact, be a duplication of the London production. The fairy story of "Cimierella" is an excuse for the display of magnificent scenery and beautiful costumes, but the old story is followed closely. The spectacle will require about 120 people to present it. Of these about 120 have been brought from England, of course including the ballet.

Mr. Harrett has produced nearly fifty of these Christmas pantonimes, and his success with them has been marked. Much of the success of these fairy spectacles depends upon the music, and as Mr. Barrett is a man of considerable musical attainments, he makes good use of his talents in this direction. on the stage here with the same care and the same as Mr. Barrett is a man of considerable musical attainments, he makes good use of his talents in this direction.

The heroine of the story will be played by Miss Ellaline Terriss, the daughter of William Terriss, with whom American playgoers are familiar through his association with Henry Irving. She was the original Cinderella in the London Lycsum production, and she became known there as "Cinder-Eila-line." Miss Terriss, though only about twenty years old, has had six years of varied experience on the stage. She has been under the management of Ressohm Tree, Charies Wyndham and others of the hist managers in London. She played the part of Miss Lily in "A Pantomime Rehearsal" over 500 times. Miss Terriss has written an operetta which will be produced at the Court Theatre next October.

The actor who plays Thisbe, one of the wicked stepsisters in "Cinderella," is Seymour Hicks. Mr.

Hicks was formerly a member of the Kendals' company, and visited this country with them on two of their previous tours. He played the part of Andrew McPhall in "Walker, London," over 500 times. He is also the author of "This World of Ours," "The New Sub," "Incle Silas," "Under the Clock" and other plays. On his return to England he will join the Galety Theatre company, where he is announced to open in Johathan Wild, Fred Leslie's old part in "Little Jack Sheppard," which will be revived in London next October.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

NEW-ENGLAND REORGANIZATION. York and New-England Railroad says in regard to the alleged reorganization plan; "The idea that the New-York and New-England Railroad needs entertained by any sensible man, unless there is some gigantic scheme underneath it all for a New-York entrance or a consolidation with some other road. The floating debt of the New-York and York entrance or a consolidation with some other road. The floating debt of the New-York and New-England is allowed to be $2.450,000. Of this amount $150,000 represents advances to the Providence and Springhed Railroad, and is secured by bonds; $85,000 represents equipment purchased on notes due five years hence, and $20,000 represents the Piper's Wharf property, which can be carried easily at 4 per cent. This brings the floating debt down to $1,11,000, and as the company has about $200,000 of cash on hand a $20 assessment is as necessary as a fifth wheel to a coach. Moreover, the assessment of $30 per share on the common stock is announced to be payable in instainents of $2 each. But supposing only two or three instainents were called, the people who are underneath the stage with this knowledge could make considerable money by buying the stock at present prices. Here are a few facts which stare security-holders in the face. The road stands on the books, after making all possible deductions, to cost $5,000,000. This was developed in the Goldsmith suits. It is bonded for $15,000,000, and has $3,800,000 of preferred stock. This leaves an equity value to the common stock of $14,700,000 or $50 per share. Give the New-England Railroad a working capital of $60,000, which is what the road has suffered for need of in the past, and it is only a question of a few years when it will pay dividends on the common stock."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC AGAINST THEM. Chicago, April 21.—Dispatches were received yesterday from the Southern Pacific Railroad by a number of Western lines which were supposed to be prominent in defence of the Western Immito be prominent in defence of the Western Immigration clearing house in effect that it would require its full second-class rate of $25 from Ogden west on all tickets they sold at the basing rate of $16.10 from the Missouri River to California points. This notice is taken to mean that the Southern Pacific is with the Union Pacific in the fight on immigration rates waged by the Western roads against the Union Pacific and its ally, the North-western. The Western roads may throw all their California immigrant business to the Santa Fé at the Missouri River.

MILLIONS FOR A RIGHT OF WAY. Chicago, April 21.-The Northwestern Elevated Railroad Company, which obtained a franchise to build a line on the north side of the city with a terminal downtown, will spend millions of dollars in obtaining a right of way from the river to an alley adjoining the First National Bank building on Dearborn-st, and then east to Wabash-ave, penetrating part of the most valuable section of the business district. The plan is to run directly through the second story of all the business houses along the line, forming a sort of novel arcade.

RUFFIANS BOMBARD ELEVATED TRAINS.

Women passengers on the Ninth-ave, elevated days as they have neared Fifty-third-st. about 6 o'clock. The men passengers seemed rather to enjoy the "racket" and consequent damage done to the elevated road rolling stock. The fright and enjoy-ment have been caused by a squad of young "hoodlums" who gather at Fifty-sixth-st, as the Ninthave, trains slow up before they reach Fifty-third-st., bombard the cars with stones and pebbles, breaking windows, marring woodwork and inspiring consternation among the passengers. For two successive evenings a Tribune reporter has been on a late afternoon train. On each occasion it has been bombaried by the vigorous and growing young ruffians of Ninth-ave. They laugh in derision at the futile efforts of the guards to stop them, and when policemen are sent to disperse them they are "omni-absent." The annoyance has been going on for some time, and some action should be taken against the young pelters. The annoyance and fright to passengers may have no effect upon the elevated road managers, but it is likely that the broken panes of glass and other damage will stir them up. For two successive evenings a Tribune reporter
